

Faculty vacancies on RCS Coloproctology portfolio

RCS is recruiting faculty members to teach on the following courses:

- Advanced Skills in Coloproctology
- Specialty Skills in Coloproctology

This is an exciting opportunity to work together with RCS to have a positive impact on patient care and which will provide you with invaluable experience and the opportunity to network with your peers.

Course faculty are required to meet several criteria, including:

- A colorectal consultant who has observed either the Advanced Skills in Coloproctology or Specialty Skills in Coloproctology course
- Evidence of engagement or commitment to improving patient safety in the clinical environment
- Experience of simulation-based education and training
- Suitable experience as an educator or trainer, in particular with small group teaching
- Have completed Training the Trainers: Developing Teaching Skills course or equivalent

If you feel that you may meet the above or have equivalent teaching experience and would be interested in becoming RCS faculty teaching on either the Advanced Skills in Coloproctology or Specialty Skills in Coloproctology course, please forward your CV outlining your experience to education@rcseng.ac.uk
