7. BDRF Report – A Senapati
Noted: a written report in the agenda papers. Income to the charity in 2017 was £434k. Eleven new projects had been awarded funding. Increasingly applications were being sent for external review due to conflicts of interest. A Senapati thanked The ACPGBI and its staff, Austin Acheson and Jim Hill for their support. The BDRF was going from strength to strength.

8. Honorary Treasurer’s Report
T Cook explained the BDRF was a subsidiary of the ACPGBI and hence both the consolidated accounts for the group and the accounts for the charity were presented. The accounts for the Dukes’ Club and the Pelvic Floor Society were included under the ACPGBI umbrella. Income was mainly from membership subscriptions, the annual meeting, Colorectal Disease, The Dukes’ Club and the Pelvic Floor Society. Around 25% of expenditure was on education. There was a surplus of £58,000 at 31st December 2017. This was mainly attributable to the PFS. The 2017 annual meeting was financially successful. Reduction of the reserves in the business account was not sustainable in the long term. There would be a £10 increase in the membership subscription for Ordinary Members from January 2019 and pro rata increases for other membership categories. A 3% discount for paying by direct debit would continue. Industry funding for the Coloproctology Tutor had ceased and so the post had been discontinued. Funding for two fellowships for East European doctors had been removed and the number of ACPGBI/Dukes’ Club fellowships had been reduced to two. Investment in the website and a new membership database were planned. Funding of £50,000 had been allocated to the IMPACT programme and the CReaTE roadshows were being financially supported.
